

An Insider's Peek at the College Admissions Process

This workshop is designed for high school freshmen, sophomores, and juniors and their families.

Learn what admissions officers are really looking for, how they read applications, and how decisions are made!

We will:

- Hold a mock admissions committee where YOU decide who to admit, deny and waitlist
- Discuss the most important factors in admissions decisions
- Examine your fears and fantasies about college admissions
- Separate the myths about the college admissions process from the reality

Speaker: Debbie Schwartz, Principal, DS College Consulting LLC, is an Independent Educational Consultant advising students and families on the college admissions process. While working in admissions for Yale, Debbie interviewed both U.S. and international applicants, reviewed applications, and participated in admissions committee meetings. Debbie was a 2010 recipient of the Congressional Coalition on Adoption Angel in Adoption Award for her work with pre- and post-adoptive families. She is an Associate Member of the Independent Educational Consultants Association. She and her husband are parents to a college student and a high school student.
